

Cohen & Steers Launches Diversified Real Assets Fund In Switzerland

Cohen & Steers, the global investment manager specialising in liquid real assets, has unveiled the Cohen & Steers SICAV Diversified Real Assets Fund (the “Fund”), which provides institutional and professional investors in Switzerland with a daily-dealing “one-stop” solution for gaining a strategic and managed exposure to multiple categories of real assets.

The Fund offers an actively managed portfolio of real assets, pooling the extensive experience Cohen & Steers has built investing across real asset classes for more than 30 years. The Fund invests in securities linked to tangible real assets – including global real estate securities, global listed infrastructure, global natural resource equities and commodities. It will also invest in gold-related instruments and short duration fixed income for portfolio diversification and risk management purposes.

A diversified blend of real assets has been shown to offer multiple potential benefits to investors, from inflation protection to portfolio diversification, underpinned by the distinct return drivers of real assets relative to stocks and bonds. Additionally, a diversified blend of real assets has historically delivered equity-like returns over full market cycles, leading to improved risk-adjusted return potential, not simply lower absolute volatility.

With the outlook for bonds turning negative, uncertainty on the horizon for equities, and global inflation signals pointing upwards, Cohen & Steers believes it is especially important for investors to address both under-diversification and the risk of inflation surprises. Incorporating a diversified real assets allocation may help mitigate these risks.

The Fund is managed by a team led by portfolio manager Vince Childers, who has 18 years of experience and manages over $1.2bn in real assets strategies for the firm. The Fund further harnesses the extensive investment management and research capabilities of Cohen & Steers’ broader 63-member investment team.

Marc Haynes, Head of Sales and Client Service, EMEA, at Cohen & Steers UK Ltd, said:

“By combining multiple real asset classes together into a single strategy, we can help smooth the risks of standalone categories. Then by applying top-down dynamic asset allocation and bottom-up security selection, we have created a turnkey solution for accessing this core asset class.”

“We believe the Fund is particularly suitable as a performance driver and diversifier and that for many investors it will offer a compelling alternative—or complement—to balanced and multi-asset funds, many of which exhibit similar risk exposures to traditional stock/bond portfolios.”
